

Warm and welcoming

Subtle bursts of colour help create this charming, country-inspired space

“Countrified” is probably the best word to describe this kitchen. Warm and elegant, the kitchen’s design has been kept simple to allow its rustic qualities to shine. The creation of this character-filled space is thanks to a talented design team who can turn its hand to any style.

The careful placement of colour along with the eclectic mix of materials utilised are key to the success of this design. Striking mint-green cabinetry is offset by a classic jarrah timber benchtop while a gorgeous, traditional-style cream combined cooktop and oven blends with a similarly toned floor.

The space has all the charm of a traditional country kitchen, minus the clutter. A generous-sized pantry with an integrated stainless-steel fridge has been cleverly installed along the wall to make the best use of space, while open shelves above one of the benchtops are an artistic way for the owners to store their cookbooks and crockery. Wide window sills and an additional shelf located above the cooktop provide places for the owners to display their collection of blue and white china.

Using a diverse range of materials that cleverly combine, Impala has created an aesthetically pleasing space that is the heart of this home. IKQ
