Striking aubergine cabinetry makes this kitchen stand out from the crowd

One of the keys to great kitchen design is the careful choice of fixtures and finishes. This kitchen is an excellent example of how to use colour and design to define a space that is sleek and sophisticated. The strikingly rich aubergine finish to the cabinets contrasts beautifully with the crisp white benchtop and stainless-steel accessories, while the sleek and simple façade belies the kitchen's fantastic storage capacity.

Designed within a compact space, the layout ensures that every centimetre is well-used. Additional storage features on the island bench as well as a bank of cabinets on one side, which is cleverly accented by the wall oven, microwave and coffee machine centred horizontally within the space. The user is able to easily move within the kitchen with regularly used items positioned to be accessed quickly and simply when needed.

The space between the main cooking and preparation areas has been carefully considered with the cooktop and rangehood at the rear, sink on the island and the horizontal band of other appliances placed at a user-friendly height. All drawers within this space are fully extendable, making access a breeze and allowing the owners to house all manner of cooking equipment.

The high ceiling helps the kitchen benefit from plenty of natural light while the design incorporates specially placed task lighting to ensure the room always operates at the height of efficiency. Frosted glass doors to the outside of the raised servery ensure storage space has been maximised and adds a lovely, designer touch to the finish of the kitchen. A horizontal shadow line encasing the tall cabinetry accents the kitchen's simple, linear design.
